I am performing in this beautiful ritualized dance-opera, Saharava, at the New York International Fringe Festival. I am proud to be one of the singers of this production and I am also playing the alto flute!

This amazing production is being performed at THEATRE 80 at 80 Saint Marks Place in downtown Manhattan.

There are four performances left. We had our wonderful opening night last night.

August 12th, Sunday – 1:00pm

August 14th, Tuesday – 2:30pm

August 15th, Wednesday – 7:45pm

August 24th, Friday – 7:15pm

This live theatrical work combines contemporary dance and wordless song in a visceral and raw transformative ritual based on the structure of the Major Arcana in the tarot deck of cards. These 22 cards of the Tarot begin with card 0, the Fool, and tell the story of the Fool's journey from ignorance to understanding.

SAHARAVA was created as a collaboration between composer Fahad Siadat and choreographer Andre Megerdichian as a joint master's thesis at the California Institute of the Arts in Los Angeles as a boundary crossing collaboration between genres. Working with the obvious intersection of dance and music, SAHARAVA expands the role of individual performers by sharing the responsibility of the movement work and narrative duties typically divided between dancers and singers of opera and instead relies on vocalists to provide the structural framework of the piece while dancers tell the narrative through movement.
